And today's financial tip:

If I have a joint account can one holder be designated to act on behalf of the other holders?

Yes, one holder of a joint account can be given the power to act on behalf of the other holders of the account. For this person to take control of the account, all the holders of the account must complete and sign a copy of the ECCSR's Primary Person Designation form. The completed form should be certified by a notary public or a broker dealer or be accompanied by a certified copy of a power of attorney prior to being submitted to the ECCSR.
